

Xmotion adds MYOB support to the Transporta mobility solution

Melbourne, Australia - 01 June – Melbourne based technology company InterDev has added MYOB support to the successful Transporta mobility product. Xmotion Transporta has been successfully implemented by a number of Transport and Logistics providers and proved a significant value-add for these businesses. The addition of MYOB support now provides small to medium transport operators the ability to seamlessly integrate billing to their dispatch and transport operations and create same day billing.

For transport operators this provides significant value by removing the need to data enter Proof of Delivery dockets and generate invoices. The integration to MYOB removes all the need for data entry and automatically creates invoices within MYOB as soon as the goods are delivered. Xmotion Transporta provides all the dispatch and event tracking to and from the mobile devices (PDA's or Mobile Data Terminals) in real-time and delivers the information to MYOB.

Transport operators can significantly reduce revenue collection times and virtually eliminate 'lost jobs' and the revenue associated with that job. "Small to medium transport operators carry a significant overhead in administration and back office functions" said Brian Mc Laughlin, InterDev Sales Director. "The ability to eliminate data entry from the invoicing process and capture revenue leakage leads to direct bottom line benefits. Customer service is also improved via Xmotion Transporta's real-time event tracking, so operators and customers will always know the status of their freight. Capturing Proof of Delivery via signature-on-glass virtually eliminates the need for time consuming data entry and administrative processes".

Xmotion Transporta is designed to scale from small to medium operators through to enterprise organisations. The pricing model is scaled accordingly, allowing operators of all sizes to access the technology and gain a rapid return on investment.
